In amphoe Nong Rong.

The cave was investigated in 1959 by Manit Valliphodom (Curator of the National Museum), Chamras Kietkong (Chief of the Survey Section) and Taen Thirapichitr (Archaeological Superintendent) of the Division of Archaeology. On the wall of the cave they found a Sanskrit inscription which read 'Devoted to the God Sambhu and with the consent of his parents, Chitrasena had this linga erected.'
